

A group of approximately ten people are seated around a large U-shaped conference table covered with a bright blue cloth. The participants, both men and women, are dressed in business casual attire; some are wearing face masks. They appear to be actively engaged in a meeting or discussion, with papers and documents spread across the table. In the foreground, the back of two chairs is visible, featuring printed Burmese text and phone numbers. The room has a tiled floor, a patterned drop ceiling with fluorescent lights, and a decorative purple and white lattice backdrop on the left wall. A green bulletin board with various notices is mounted on the right wall near a window.

